“The Allman Brothers Band have a unique facility. They have this perpetual swing sensation. When they play things that are tangential to the blues—even when they play heavy rock—they swing like they’re playing jazz. They’re always going forward, and it’s always a groove. When you take their music apart, you realize how exquisite and deep their playing facility and sensitivity really is.”

—Tom Dowd, producer, Idlewild South, At Fillmore East, Eat A Peach, Seven Turns, Shades Of Two Worlds, An Evening With, Where It All Begins.
